ABOUT THE ORANGE PAGES

The Orange Pages: Directory of SGBV Responders and Service Providers in Nigeria was informed by the incessant increase in incidents of Sexual and Gender-Based Violence (SGBV) in Nigeria, which has been exacerbated by the COVID-19 pandemic. It complements past and ongoing efforts to curb SGBV and ensure support for survivors. This alarming and worrisome increase in SGBV necessitates the need for at-risk populations – women, girls, children, and persons living with disabilities – to have access to verified and accurate contacts of government institutions, Sexual Assault Referral Centres (SARCs), civil society organizations, and individuals who can be reached by SGBV survivors across Nigeria for assistance, advice, and referrals. The colour orange is adopted by the United Nations to symbolize “a brighter future, free of violence,” serving as a means of demonstrating solidarity in eliminating all forms of violence.

METHODOLOGY

In calling for enlistments, a Google form was published on www.invictus.ng/sgbvresponders, through which contact information was collected and collated. Contact details of partners who are SGBV responders and service providers were also gathered from relevant groups and networks. We acknowledge the Rule of Law and Anti-Corruption (RoLAC) as the source of the contact information of all the Sexual Assault Referral Centres (SARCs). Upon collation, a two-way validation and verification exercise was conducted whereby individuals provided details of credible NGOs who were contacted to affirm their expertise in responding to SGBV. All contacts (individuals and organizations) were further contacted by a team of ad-hoc staff for purposes of authentication, tracing of digital footprints, and confirming the accuracy of contact information provided. Contacts that were unreachable and untraceable were removed. While the contact information is protected under Invictus Africa’s Data Protection Policy (www.invictus.ng/dataprotectionpolicy), we also requested and obtained their consent to publish and publicize their information in this Orange Pages.

LIMITATIONS

This is the first attempt by Invictus Africa to compile contact details of government institutions, non-governmental organizations, and individuals who respond to and provide services to survivors of Sexual and Gender-Based Violence (SGBV) in Nigeria. Hence, this Directory does not contain the contact information of all SGBV responders and services providers in Nigeria due to limitations relating to few responses to the call for enlistment, limited range of publicity, and unawareness by the organizations and individuals that should have enlisted. However, we will keep calling for enlistment for purposes of updating and publishing subsequent up-to-date editions of the Orange Pages, while collaborating with relevant government bodies and non-governmental organizations to consolidate similar information. To enlist, please fill the form on www.invictus.ng/sgbvresponders.

ACCESSING THE ORANGE PAGES

The Orange Pages is currently available in both digital and print versions, while we work on other ways to make it easily accessible to all Nigerians, especially those in rural communities. In the meantime, the printed version of the Orange Pages will be distributed and made available in places where people at risk of SGBV are, such as government institutions, Local Government Areas, worship centres, private offices, police stations, hotels, apartments, community centres, schools and higher institutions, and other places where people without internet can access it. The online version will be published on www.invictus.ng/orangepages, OSIWA's website, and as many digital platforms as possible.

We created this Directory for YOU.

Wherever you are in this country, in the East, South, North, or West, we want you to know that we see you, and you're not alone.

Experiencing Sexual Abuse is a traumatic experience, whether it is our experience or the experience of others around us.

But we must know that there is help available. There are individuals, sexual and gender-based violence responders, and sexual assault referral centres across this country who provide medical care, psychosocial support, legal aid, and other forms of support to survivors of sexual violence.

You're not alone. Help is available.
